WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN?

1. A person who hears the gospel.
2. A person who believes in Christ.
3. A person who repents of his sins.
4. A person who confesses Christ as his Savior.
5. A person who is baptized into Christ.
6. A person who continues as a faithful, working follower of Christ until death takes him from this world.

The Bible makes it very clear that it takes all of these steps to be a Christian.

Harry B. Young, Jr., tells why everyone should listen to the General Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and should listen to what the two missionaries have to say who are presently in the Sedalia area.

1. That the fullness of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is upon the earth.
2. That through a plain farm youth, Joseph Smith, God the Father and the Son, Jesus Christ did appear to him and tell him that through him the Gospel would again be brought back to earth for the benefit of all mankind for the last time before his second coming.
3. That John the Baptist did appear to Joseph Smith and Oliver Coudry to restore the anarion or lesser Priesthood or authority to baptize.
4. That Peter, James and John, Christ's three chief apostles, appeared to Joseph Smith and Oliver Coudry and bestowed upon them the melchizedic Priesthood or the power to govern and set up His gospel in its fullness for the last time before his second coming.
5. That the twelve apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) are as much a prophet to the people of the world as the 12 apostles of old.
6. That everyone on earth must and will have an opportunity to receive or reject the gospel in its fullness.
7. That we here today and now are receiving our opportunity.
8. That we should listen with real intent to know and ask God, our eternal father, if these things are not true. The Holy Ghost will bear witness to us of the truthfulness.
9. Should we seek and find out through prayer that these things are true.
10. That by putting the Gospel in our daily lives as much as we understand and continue to try to learn and apply that ALL of our problems, personal, local and national will be taken care of automatically and peace will again come to this earth.

To learn more about the restored gospel contact any member of the local church or call Harry B. Young.

SUNDAY, APRIL 9, 10:30 A.M. TO 12:30 P.M.

LEADERS OF TWO AND A HALF MILLION MORMONS—93-year-old President David O. McKay (surrounded by his counselors) will direct the 137th annual conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints April 6, 8 and 9 in the Salt Lake Tabernacle. The counselors are, upper left, Hugh B. Brown; upper right, N. Eldon Tanner; lower left, Joseph Fielding Smith; and lower right, Thorpe B. Isaacson.

MODERN DAY APOSTLES—The twelve apostles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are among the prominent speakers who will address the 137th annual conference of the Church April 6, 8 and 9. Seated, left to right, are Ezra Taft Benson, Mark E. Petersen (on chair arm), Joseph Fielding Smith, council president and member of the First Presidency, and Le Grand Richards. Standing, left to right, are Gordon B. Hinckley, Delbert L. Stapley, Thomas S. Monson, Spencer W. Kimball, Harold B. Lee, Marion G. Romney, Richard L. Evans, and Howard W. Hunter.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Speakers at the upcoming 137th annual General Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will treat a wide variety of vital subjects.

Six sessions are scheduled April 6, 8 and 9 in the 100-year-old Tabernacle on Temple Square. The Sunday sessions will be telecast coast to coast via a special net work of some 200 stations. Some 30 radio stations will carry conference messages across the nation and by shortwave to South America, Mexico, the Caribbean, Europe and Africa.

The speakers are the 39 General Authorities, who direct worldwide church activities from Salt Lake City. They collectively have vast experience in government, business, education and religion. Their subjects reflect their wide interests.

Heading the list are the five-man First Presidency and the Quorum of Twelve Apostles. Church President David O. McKay, 93, was a leading Utah educator prior to his call as an apostle in 1906. His counselors, Hugh B. Brown and N. Eldon Tanner, were active in Canadian affairs. President Brown was successful in military, legal and business endeavors. President Tanner was a businessman and member of the Provincial Cabinet. Joseph Fielding Smith, a counselor and also president of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles, is the foremost authority on church history and doctrine. Thorpe B. Isaacson, the youngest counselor, has suffered a stroke and likely will be unable to address the crowd.

Millions of radio listeners are familiar with the voice of Richard L. Evans who narrates the weekly Tabernacle Choir broadcasts. He also is president of Rotary International. Howard W. Hunter was a corporation lawyer and businessman in Southern California prior to his call to the apostleship.

Gordon B. Hinckley was publicity director for the church. Thomas S. Monson was a printing executive in Salt Lake City. These men, and other Church officials, will speak on such topics as family life, morality, education, thrift, health, patriotism, integrity, youth leadership and basic Christian virtues.

strators set up shouts for "peace in Vietnam" as they stood on the roof of the airport administration building several hundred yards from the honor salon where Humphrey stepped from his plane.

Some of the demonstrators hurled eggs at a car full of newsmen but missed. One of the cars in Humphrey's motorcade was splattered with white paint as it drove into the city.

Humphrey paused briefly at his hotel on the Place de la Concorde, then drove four blocks to the Elysee Palace for the meeting and luncheon with De Gaulle.

The French Communist party newspaper, Humanite, published a detailed program showing where Humphrey would be all day and urged followers to show him that "French public opinion condemns American aggression in Vietnam." It called him "the traveling salesman of American aggression."

Although the French government position on the Vietnamese war is not far from the Communist stand, French officials assured newsmen they were doing everything possible to make Humphrey welcome in Paris. Working with American security officials, they arranged careful protection measures.

But French sources said they could see little prospect of any new development or initiatives resulting from the vice president's talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French officials.

"We both already know each other's positions very well on the main subjects," said one source, referring particularly to De Gaulle's opposition to the American presence in Vietnam.

Other likely subjects for discussion were East-West relations, the proposed treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, British entry into the Common Market, the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations, and the poor relations between France and the United States.

Winding up his two-week fence-mending tour of Europe as a substitute for President Johnson, the vice-president goes Saturday to Brussels. An aide said he would spend an extra day there, flying to Washington Monday, but did not explain why.

In West Berlin Thursday, Humphrey drew the biggest crowds of his European trip and one of his biggest antiwar demonstrations by a jeering crowd that chanted "Ho-Ho-Ho Chi Minh!"

A few hours after Humphrey reaffirmed the U.S. pledge to defend West Berlin and compared the U.S. stand in the divided city to its role in Vietnam, he was greeted by a crowd estimated at 600 to 1,000 outside the gates of the Charlottenburg Castle, where he was guest of honor at a reception.

A firecracker and bags of flour were thrown as Humphrey's limousine swept through the gates, past the rival banners of anti-American and pro-American demonstrators who scuffled with each other in a cold rain.

Humphrey's car, under a heavy security guard of American Secret Service agents and West Berlin police, was not hit. Kiwanis Talk On Support Of Colleges

"Why Support Private Colleges?" was the subject of a talk by Dr. M. Earle Collins, president of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, at the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker was introduced by David Eisenstein, program chairman, and former student of the college.

Dr. Collins spoke of the rapidly increasing enrollments in schools in an age when young people are confronted with changed methods of acquiring knowledge which in the past ten years has outstripped what was previously known since the dawn of history. He stressed the compatibility of maintaining a dual system of higher education—the private schools and the public or tax supported schools.

They offer checks, balances, and stimuli to each other, he said. He emphasized the increasing stature of schools and colleges supported by private funds.

Robert Mills, Scout Executive of the Lake of the Ozarks Council, on behalf of that organization, presented to the Boeing Good Neighbor Fund a sustaining membership plaque in recognition of the financial support the Boeing people had given Scouting. The plaque was accepted by Harry Hotchkiss, a Kiwanian, and representative of the Boeing Industrial Relations department. Mr. Mills was introduced by Louis R. Hughes, Jr.

President James Giokaris extended a welcome to Edw. McLaughlin and Pinkney Miller, secretary, who have been absent from the club for some time on vacation. He also announced that members of the family of Past Lieut. Gov. Lindsay Edwards and Mrs. Edwards would hold an open house for them at 201 South Gentry Avenue on Sunday, April 9 from 2 to 5 o'clock, in observance of the Edwards' 50th wedding anniversary.

Singing was led by Joe Allen with Mrs. Lillian Maynard as accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to Dr. D. R. Edwards, James Giokaris, Adolph Glenn and Virgil Winge. Guests were: Robert Mills, Jefferson City, with L. R. Hughes, Jr., and Robert Crawford, Jefferson City, with Philip McLaughlin.

The club's speaker next week will be P. S. Thakur Maharachtra, currently with Central Missouri State College, on the subject of "International Relations Between the United States and India."

police car. Police seized a score of the demonstrators.

Earlier in his trip, Humphrey was the target of yellow paint in Rome, eggs in Florence and cries of "baby murderer" outside No. 10 Downing Street in London.

West Berlin police on Wednesday night arrested seven young men and three girls they said were planning an attack with explosives during Humphrey's visit. The three girls were released Thursday for lack of evidence, and the seven young men were freed early today after a court rejected the West Berlin prosecutor's request for warrants to hold them longer.

A lawyer for the youths had said they were preparing smoke bombs.

Extensive damage resulted to a 1959 Chevrolet which overturned on the Ingram Ave. Road, approximately two miles south of Sedalia shortly after 9 p.m. Wednesday.

The car was driven by Glenn Wayne Yahn, 21, 1015 East 17th, who told Trooper William Southwick he was headed north coming out of the north curve of a series of curves, when another car with bright lights blinded him and his car struck a pile of dirt which was cut from a ditch, preparing for the new County Highway.

In turning over, the car came to rest on its top, breaking out several windows and crushing in the top.

Park's wrecker towed the car to Sedalia.

Two hit-and-run accidents were reported to police Thursday.

The first occurred on the State Fair Shopping Center parking lot at 10:34 a.m. A 1966 Ford, owned by Joseph H. Bone, Jefferson City, received damage to the rear while it was parked.

Circuit Court

A petition for damages was transferred from Magistrate Court to the Circuit Court Thursday because the amount asked for was in excess of Magistrate Courts cases. The petition was filed by Edwin Sands against Annie Mae Webb.

The petition stated that the plaintiff was driving his 1962 Rambler north on Montgomery when it was in collision with a 1963 Buick, driven east on Broadway by the defendant. This accident took place July 11, 1966.

The plaintiff seeks $500 for damages suffered as a result of the accident. He also asks for $411.20 damage to his car, for a total amount of $911.20.

The defendant, on a counter file, charges the plaintiff with driving in a careless manner, and seeks $15,000 for injuries received as a result of the accident. She also seeks $330 for damage to her car.

James T. Buckley is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Accidents

An International tractor pulling a trailer loaded with aluminum boats and canoes overturned on north U.S. Highway 65 about 1 a.m. Friday, two and three-tenths miles north of the junction of County Highways D and J. The driver escaped injury.

Jim Caver, 32, of Arkadelphia, Ark., the driver of the 1967 International tractor, said he pulled off on to the shoulder and the trailer and tractor overturned. The trailer rolled in to a new fence on the Jim Walk farm, tearing out a portion of the fence.

The unit and boats are owned by the Ouachita Marine Co., of Arkadelphia. Some damage resulted to several of the boats and slight damage resulted to the tractor. There were 38 boats and canoes on the units.

Carl Odell's wrecker from Marshall righted the two units. Trooper William Southwick made the investigation.

Garland Wray Jobe, 22, 615 East 17th, suffered bruises and abrasions when his motorcycle and a car, driven by Harvey Edward Harms, 50, Forest City, Iowa, collided on U. S. Highway 50 in front of Biedermans Furniture Co., about 4:20 p.m. Thursday.

Relations Man For Top Force

By THOMAS A. REEDY
LONDON, (AP) — For the last nine years has been promoting a soft drinks firm, bottlers of ginger ale, tonic water and the like, moved onto the scene just as Scotland Yard moved early in March from its turreted home on the banks of the Thames to a modern glass and steel building near Westminster Abbey.

George D. Gregory, who for the last nine years has been promoting a soft drinks firm, bottlers of ginger ale, tonic water and the like, moved onto the scene just as Scotland Yard moved early in March from its turreted home on the banks of the Thames to a modern glass and steel building near Westminster Abbey.

He is a part of the Yard's move into modern times, along with the computerized police station use of radio, radar and scientific analysis, and modern communications.

For six months he intends to study, read, watch, meet people, and then strike out with an active program.

He wants to know the multiple jobs the Metropolitan Police do, the points of friction with the public, the best ways to recruit the best men, and the best ways to sell the bobbies to the people who pay the bill.

In time the job will involve perhaps advertising, close contact with the press, radio and television, and creation of an atmosphere to lift Scotland Yard out of insular thinking while still preserving the secrecy and security any police force lives by.

As a naval officer for 22 years, a civilian in government departments, and then a public relations man, Gregory, 53, is outspoken, highly vocal, and quite unafraid to take on anything new.

"I am still amazed in this short time to find out just how many jobs the police do," he said. "Only five per cent of the public ever have any contact with the police and they don't really know what he is doing."

He has already decided that the policeman on the beat is the heart of London's law enforcement—"he is seen, and that is what matters."

Killed In Accident

CASSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — One youth was killed and two were injured Wednesday night when their car ran off Missouri 37 about five miles south of Cassville and overturned.

Gary Layne Jones, 16, of Washburn, Mo., was dead on arrival at St. John's Hospital in Springfield. His twin brother, Larry Wayne Jones, was in critical condition.

The third youth, Donald Wayne West, 17, of Seligman, Mo., was taken to the hospital at Cassville.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said the driver apparently lost control of the car.

FINDING THE WAY

Not Time to Be Tired

By RALPH W. LOWE, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a tired editor in Minnesota and the frequent reporting of his reasons for his weariness has attracted national attention. He's tired of De Gaulle, Nasser, beatniks and self-righteous breast-beaters. He's tired because many of his tax dollars go where he doesn't want them to go. He's tired of fifth peddlers and hypocrites. It's quite an inventory and, although it exhausts him, it doesn't exhaust the list. Any of us can add some other persons or situations that make us tired.

I'm tired of worrying about leaving our home to the possible mercy of vandals and thieves who want to make off with the few possessions we cherish.

I'm tired of people who lament civic situations and chide political leaders but are never around to lift the value of the community.

I'm tired of persons who decry national situations and then run off to their hideaways to forget their sorrows instead of tackling the issue where they live.

I'm tired of hearing the lamentations over the disappearance of certain pieties and moral values and yet never discovering the sorrowful giving any support or commitment to or through the church.

When you think about it, it doesn't take much of a person to get tired. "Be not weary in well-doing," suggests Scripture and all too many have lost the enthusiastic eagerness, ending up as wornout rubber bands that have lost elasticity.

The Psalmist wrote, "If the foundations crumble, what will the righteous do?" We ask now, "If the foundations crumble, what have the righteous been doing?" We can be so tired lamenting and complaining that we miss the fight. Halford Lukcock reminded us that Rip Van Winkle was also tired. When he went to sleep the picture of King George was on the wall; when he woke up George Washington's portrait was there. Old Rip had slept through a revolution.

I don't want to be so tired that I lose perspective and so waste my energies on the wrong battles. Long-haired beatniks may be annoying but the weary apathy of the short-haired can be as dangerous.

I don't want to be so tired that I'm only cynical, seeing no joy in today or any hope for the future. The problems are enormous but this is not the first time in history that men have had to confront complex problems.

I don't want to be so tired that I spend my waking hours lamenting situations without ever dealing with them with creative imagination.

I don't want to be so tired that I remind people of a blighted elm instead of a sturdy oak. I don't want to be so tired that when my Lord asks me what I've been doing I can only grunt sleepily.

"Could you not watch with me one hour?" Jesus asked as he turned to his sleeping disciples who were too tired to sweat it out with their Master at the time of His agonizing decision.

In truth, I don't want to be so tired that I miss out on the struggle!

Be not weary in well-doing. It's no time to be tired!

Stimulus to Taxpayers

It's consoling as we go into the final frantics of our income tax return to know that our tax money is being wisely spent to bring us the better life.

Take travel, for instance. Everyone knows it's broadening—especially if it's done abroad. And nobody is doing it more broadly than our public servants in Congress.

A recent issue of the Congressional Record listed the cost of travel in 1966 by members of the House. And were they on the ball — or at least on the go!

One hundred and fifty members and staff employees of the House dutifully tore themselves away from the comforts of home life to endure the travail of travel at a cost to the taxpayer of only $489,682.55.

(This doesn't include, of course, the cost to the military of flying our lawmakers when commercial service wasn't available. Or what it cost our embassies overseas to entertain these travelers.)

U.S. Senators spent only $233,626 in 1966 travel. But before you condemn them as provincial, remember that the House has more members!

One trip gives an insight into the sacrifices our representatives are willing to make to serve their constituents.

Five members of a House Education and Labor subcommittee visited Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Thailand, India, Egypt, Greece, Italy, Portugal, Germany, Denmark and Iceland. Their living expenses total $17,850.18. But the U. S. Air Force flew them all that distance for the bargain price of only $852.44.

Their mission? To study the impact of foreign manufacturing on U. S. employment and to inspect U. S. schools for the children of Americans stationed abroad.

The benefits of what they learned will be passed along to the American economy and culture—except possibly by one member of the group who just a few weeks before the trip had been defeated for re-election. But think what he'll have to tell his grandchildren!

Well, back to filling out that income tax form. It takes a lot of money to run a country as big as this.

Congress 'Coasting' On Past Record

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — This is a peculiar time, a kind of moping along time as if Congress was waiting for something more tremendous to come along than it is facing this year.

This isn't because of any trouble with President Johnson. He hasn't been in any brawl with the men in the Capitol. Except for an occasional set-to with a few senators over Vietnam his relations with Congress have been good.

Nor is it a problem of a Congress immobilized by an unbridgeable gulf between liberals and conservatives over extending government social welfare programs.

That kind of gulf was bridged — at least in a basic sense, since there is still picking and pecking on the subject — when Congress passed the Employment Act of 1946.

In that act Democrats and Republicans got together long enough to agree the government had a responsibility for the general welfare, the first time in history that had happened, which made it easier thereafter to put through social welfare programs.

What seems to be happening on the part of both Johnson and Congress is a feeling that the torrent of legislation in the welfare field that they turned out in 1964 should do for a while, at least until it is in full operation.

Perhaps that, along with the Vietnamese war which is dominant in the minds of both Johnson and Congress, explains the rather subdued nature of most of the programs Johnson asked for this year.

Only two of them really come under the traditional heading of social welfare: one calling for the biggest increase in Social Security benefits in 30 years and a proposal to spend $650 million for better health and educational opportunities for young Americans.

Some of Johnson's other proposals were controversial in their own right, and already he has given up on one while success on another looks dubious.

Labor didn't like his suggestion to eliminate the individual Departments of Labor and Commerce and merge their interests in a new department of economics. Johnson has backed off that one.

Many businessmen, and perhaps most people weren't happy over that part of his January State of the Union message asking Congress for a tax increase, effective July 1, through a 6 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate incomes.

Johnson's chances of getting it look dimmer now than in January for since then the economy has quieted down.

Some Negro leaders felt he was too skimpy on civil rights in his State of the Union message. He made up for that later with a special civil rights message asking for an eventual ban on discrimination in housing, safeguards against discrimination in jury selections and an equal employment opportunity commission.

Congress hasn't acted on that yet but if the section on open housing ever reaches the House or Senate floor the most intense heat wave of the year should sweep over the Capitol.

Here are some of Johnson's other requests: A revision of the military draft, a massive effort to combat crime, legislation to reduce juvenile delinquency, an all-out assault on air pollution, approval of a treaty barring the use of outer space for anything but peaceful purposes, another year of foreign aid, a 12-point program to protect the American consumer and an overhaul of the patent system.

Taken as a whole, this is not an inflammatory set of proposals.

A letter from El Paso Texas asks: "Does the correct play always win? Don't experts ever take a losing finesse?"

The answer to this is that experts frequently take losing finessses. Sometimes they have no choice. If you have to finesse for a king you only have one way to go. Other times they go wrong just as everyone else does and on some occasions they deliberately finesse in a certain direction to make sure that the dangerous hand does not get in the lead.

West opens the seven of spades against South's three no-trump contract. East plays the jack and South holds back his king. East continues with the ace and another spade and South is in with the king.

He has two ways to finesse for the queen of diamonds. You can see that queen reposing quietly in the West hand and can see that if South plays the king of diamonds and continues the ten he will take the rest of the tricks and won't even have to finesse at all. The queen will show up when he leads the ten.

Our expert would also lose his membership in the experts' union if he made that play. The reason is that he does not know where the queen of diamonds is but he does know where the rest of the spades are. If he plays that way and East holds the queen he goes down at three no-trump.

If he leads a club to dummy, plays any diamond but the ace and finessses his ten, he is going to lose to the queen this time but he makes his contract irrespective of where the queen is.

Don't Talk About It But Try To Stop Recession

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody is doing something about it but nobody talks about it. The Federal Reserve, the Johnson administration, the consumer act as if they fear a little recession. But none of them use the word.

But — the consumer holds cautiously, perhaps fearfully, to his dollars rather than spending them, the Federal Reserve continues to free more antirecession money, the administration has opened its spending spigot all the way.

Doesn't this indicate the fear of a recession? Maybe, but nobody talks about it. They'd rather talk about the weather.

Do actions speak louder than words? You would have to say so, especially when so little action is needed to drown the sound of words such as these, all of which have been used to describe present economic conditions:

Slowdown, present adjustment, continued moderation, readjustment, rolling adjustment, pause, economic lag, downturn, shakeout.

No fear in these soft words.

All have been used in recent days and all may have their specific meanings. But sometimes, too, their use is meant to disguise.

Long after a pause has deepened into a recession, "pause" remains in use. "Recession" is a label, emotional, dangerous and easily remembered. Better to be ponderous: "A period of reduced general economic activity," as Webster says it.

A terrible fear is associated with the word, and not just because of chilling memories of bad days. To acknowledge the existence of a recession tends to assure its continuation. Fear breeds caution among those who should spend.

The unmentionable word thus is something seen only in retrospect. It belongs to the future or past but never to now. Forecasters use it and so do historians. And by the time it is history the danger is passed.

Recent slowdowns, later identified as recessions, have been common, but not one person in 10 can say when they occurred. Not that many read history. For the record: 1948-49, 1953-54, 1957-58, 1960-61.

Even Satan Seems To Shun Credit For US Suburbia

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — God made the country — man made the town — but no one, not even the devil, seems willing to accept responsibility for the suburbs.

Like topsy, they seem to have "just grown."

And they are still growing like mushrooms — or toadstools. America is well on its way to creating one of the world's first suburban civilizations.

Some of my best friends live in suburbs, and for the life of me I can't figure out why. Everytime I visit them and return safely to the city I feel like kissing the first skyscraper I meet in gratitude.

People throng here from all parts of the nation — from Oshkosh, Wis., Bygones, Ga., Corn-cob, Neb., and Big Heap, Mont. — to carve a career in the big city, the city "that has everything."

One out of three of them immediately tries to rent a pad in Greenwich Village, hoping perhaps for a little Bohemian revelry. But what do most of them do after they land a steady job? Move out to a suburb.

If a man works in the suburb where he lives, he can have a fine and happy life. He is probably a native there, and happy in its folkways.

But if a man only uses a suburb as a bedroom and a weekend resort but still has to go to and from the city each day to earn his bread and butter, he is a pilgrim in eternal shuttle, a prisoner of bus or railroad timetables.

He is thrice enslaved — to his job, to his transit system, and to the inordinate demands of his little green and white castle cramped on a quarter acre plot in the suburbs.

His home makes of him an unwilling carpenter, house painter, plumber and general all around unpaid hired man. If anything breaks or goes wrong, he generally has to fix it himself.

Although his aching muscles rebel, he must grow tomatoes in his backyard, even though they end up costing him a dollar a tomato.

Why? Because his neighbor does. Everybody in the suburbs grows tomatoes or loses caste. If you do you're "in," if you don't you're out.

Each Saturday from now until October he must get down on his knees and dig crabgrass useful in proving any deductions from the front lawn.

Why? Because his neighbor does. In the suburbs green lawns are altars, and it is not proper for crabgrass to grow on altars.

But compassion is wasted on the typical suburbanite. If you express sympathy for his plight, he replies indignantly:

"What do you mean? Why I wouldn't live anywhere else for a million dollars."

But what about his kids? They've seen what the suburbs have done to their parents. As soon as they grow up, they want to move to the big city, where conformity is not a hammer and crabgrass is no problem as it can't grow in concrete.

Q's and A's On Tax Matters

(By IRS)

Q — We have just sold our house at a profit. Is that taxable when we put the money into a larger home?

A — Generally, if you purchase and occupy another home within a year at a price equal to or above what you received for your old home then you will not be currently taxed on the profit made on the sale.

If within the appropriate time period, you buy a new home at a lower price than you sold the old one for, all or part of the gain is taxed currently.

A complete discussion of this subject may be found in IRS Document 5017, "Selling Your Home," available by dropping a postcard to your District Director.

Q — How about the cost of a hunting license. Is that deductible?

A — No it is not.

Q — I've heard that a check made out to cash or to yourself is not sufficient to establish a deductible expense. Is that right?

A — Generally speaking, that is correct. To substantiate a deductible expense your records must indicate, among other things, the purpose of the expense, and to whom paid, as well as the amount.

A check made out to cash or to yourself gives no indication by itself of the nature of the expense. This kind of check must be supported by other records, such as receipts, to be his knees and dig crabgrass useful in proving any deductions from the front lawn.

CIA Funds for Civil Rights In South

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — It will be vociferously denied, but some of the South's most vocal opponents of civil rights have either overlooked or sanctioned under-the-table CIA aid to help Negro voting registration and militant civil rights groups.

The CIA money was funneled through private foundations right under the nose of the Central Intelligence watchdog committee headed by Sen. Dick Russell, Georgia Democrat, and Rep. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Democrat. Both have made speeches and led filibusters denouncing the civil rights movement. Yet they permitted CIA funds to go to civil rights groups in the same manner that CIA money went to student groups.

The disclosure emphasizes the importance of the drive led by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to put members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the CIA watchdog group, now composed solely of members from the House and Senate Armed Services Committee. This drive was defeated last fall when Russell emphatically proclaimed that his committee knew what CIA was doing. Obviously it didn't.

On the watchdog committee, in addition to Russell and Rivers, are such Southern stalwarts as John Stennis, D-Miss., Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. together with O. C. Fisher, Tex., Elliott Hagan, Ga., and Alton Lennon, N. C. — all Democrats.

CIA's Secret Channels

The main conduit for CIA money to help the Negro voter registration drive was the Southern Regional Council, which received $60,000 of CIA funds in 1963. The money was channeled through the New World Foundation.

In 1962, $6,000 of CIA funds went to the Southern Regional Council through the Aaron E. Norman Fund. In 1962, the Georgia Council on Human Relations also got $2,600 of CIA money from the Norman Fund.

The National Student Association, which received massive contributions of CIA money, was also encouraged by the CIA to push voter registration drives in the South.

Justification for using CIA funds was to quiet disastrous foreign publicity caused by civil rights violence.

The Norman Fund, incidentally, has also contributed to CORE'S Scholarship and Educational Fund, the Lawyers' Constitutional Defense Committee, and the League for Industrial Democracy, all vigorous civil rights advocates.

Note: Fund officials deny any knowledge of CIA financial ties; nevertheless they are a fact.

One Man—One Vote

A drive to head off the first federal con-

Guest Editorials

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL: A Lesson of Sorts. — Now that it has impressed the zip code on the national conscience, the post office assures us that the next key to winning its race with disaster is pre-sorting. Sometimes you have to wonder.

A man we know frequents a Brooklyn corner where two of those patriotic-colored boxes are marked "Brooklyn" and "All Other Post Offices." He approached the other day, dutifully pre-sorting a Brooklyn letter from a handful of others, to find the boxes' contents just being collected. After adding his "all other" letters to the batch being scooped from that box into a gray bag, he looked vainly for a second bag, and finally told the mailman, "I've got one for Brooklyn too."

"That's all right," the mailman chuckled as he added the Brooklyn letter to his bag. "They all go in here."

stitutional convention in U. S. history has been started in legislatures which hitherto voted for such a convention. The drive is led by Illinois State Senator Paul Simon of Troy, Ill., home state of a man who has chiefly sponsored the convention, Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican, who wants to nullify the Supreme Court's one man—one vote ruling.

Though Dirksen's home legislature passed a resolution favoring a constitutional convention in order to overturn the Supreme Court, the Illinois legislature has now found that the Supreme Court was right and that the equalization of representation in the legislature has worked for Illinois's general benefit. It has also, incidentally, increased Republican representation in the legislature, having given more votes to the suburbs around Chicago than to sparsely populated downstate Illinois.

Despite this, Dirksen helped to sneak resolutions through 32 state legislatures favoring the convention. Never before in the 180-year history of the United States has the nation ever held a convention to change the constitution; nor has it come this close. Only two more states are needed to get the required number of legislatures on record.

This is why Sen. Simon, a member of the Illinois legislature, which has already voted for the convention, has introduced a resolution to "Rescind the previous action." He has also written to the majority and minority leaders of every House and Senate in the 50 states urging similar action. In his letter, Sen. Simon points out how easy it is for state legislatures to go on record for a constitutional convention.

Too Hasty Action

"In Illinois, for example, it takes a two-thirds vote to change the state constitution, but only a simple majority to change the federal constitution," said Simon. "It is literally true that in our state a measure to grant an easement to a municipality to run a water line across state property must go through three readings in each house; but the resolution to change the federal constitution can be acted upon hastily with no such safeguards."

"There is no statutory framework for a federal constitutional convention," Sen. Simon wrote his fellow legislators. "There is some question whether a constitutional convention can be limited to one topic. This means that a constitutional convention could result in a fundamental challenge to our basic freedoms."

"Under area representation in the past half century, gross inequalities in representation became part of the American scene," writes Sen. Simon. "In Nevada, 8 per cent of the population controlled one house of the legislature; in California, one district had 6,038,771 voters and another district 14,294. Are we serious about wanting to return to such a system?"

Medicine Must See Position

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The new president of the Missouri State Medical Association says the profession must recognize its "true position in the economy of our present society."

Dr. Hector W. Benoit Jr. of Kansas City, who will serve as the association's president for the coming year, told its 109th annual meeting:

"This is a time of momentous changes in society and the relationship we hold to that society."

Dr. Benoit said the profession will be called upon by the government to participate in many of its programs.

"It is not in keeping with our heritage as physicians, it is illegal . . . and it is impractical from our own personal selfish interests even to momentarily consider 'nonparticipation' in these programs," he said.

The convention opened Thursday and continues through Saturday.

The retiring president, Dr. Byron M. Stuart of Boonville, said that it hurts him to think that his year as president will be remembered as the one in which Medicare became law.

"I hope, however, that I have learned to accept the facts of life and society as they are . . . we are part of a rapidly changing society — in the environment of which we have got to live," he said.

"We must contribute more to the processes by which the laws of a democratic country are made. The doctor has a double duty to himself and to his patients to see that medical values are effectively represented when legislation is being debated and, even more importantly, when elections are being held."

Negro Humor Seems To Be Stinging

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The first gag in Thursday night's "A Time for Laughter" on ABC had Negro comedienne Moms Mabley turning to a mirror on the wall and asking "Who's the fairest of them all?"

Back from the mirror came the answer, from Negro comedian Redd Fox: "Snow White, and don't you forget it."

About an hour later, Dick Gregory, in a set simulating a crowded jail full of civil rights demonstrators, admonished his cell mates: "The next time you demonstrate, if one of those dogs bites you, bite him back. We'll come to jail with their rabies. And they'll go home barking 'We shall overcome'."

If the ABC "Stage 67" program with its star-studded cast of Negroes purportedly tracing Negro humor of the past 100 years is accurate, Negro humor seems to be bitter, sharp and stinging.

The whole period was not, of course, completely devoted to humor growing from the civil rights movement. Pigmeat

Markham played a judge in a long vaudeville sketch with Harry Belafonte and Diahann Carroll as a battling husband and wife.

It was an interesting program, but not exactly a barrel of laughs.

Supervisory personnel of the three networks Thursday turned in excellent jobs as they handled the mechanics of television broadcasting, now further crippled by walkouts by members of technical unions in sympathy with the 10-day-old performers union strike.

Occasionally sound disappeared or a cut from one segment of a news show to another was ragged. On the whole, however, things went surprisingly smoothly.

The continuing strike, however, is raising a hob with some well-laid entertainment plans.

Taping for "Carousel," a two-hour adaptation of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical for broadcast next month has been postponed, although rehearsals have been completed.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Saturday — "A Yankee sails across Europe," CBS, 8:30-9:30 p.m., EST, a National Geographic special; "Damn Yankees," NBC, 9-11, adaptation of the hit musical comedy, with Phil Silvers, Lee Remick and Jim Backus.

Actress Wants Out Of Series

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Another defector from "Peyton Place"? Barbara Parkins, who has played Betty Anderson in the nighttime soap opera since its start, indicates that she wants out.

The Vancouver (Canada) beauty would be following the example of Mia Farrow, who left the cast to pursue other careers as motion picture actress — she is now in "A Dandy in Aspic" in England — and wife of Frank Sinatra.

"I'd like to leave, too," says Miss Parkins, "but for a different reason."

One of Hollywood's most notable girls-about-town, she has no marriage plans. But she has abundant ambition for her career, and she figures that continuing with "Peyton Place" will not be to her advantage.

"I was very lucky to get the series; it has been good for me," she said. "But now I have been in it for three years. We have made the equivalent of 10 years of television shows — if 'Peyton Place' had been shown once a week in a regular-length season."

"That's a lot of film. I've come to the point where I don't want to work every day. I want to travel and see the world. Besides, I have done everything possible with the character of Betty Anderson. Now it becomes mechanical."

Miss Parkins said she hadn't imparted her feelings to the 20th Century-Fox management — "I have an agent for that." If she does seek a release from the series, her cause may be aided by her present assignment: she is one of the pill-addicted wretches in "Valley of the Dolls."

Like Patty Duke, Miss Parkins had to campaign for the role. Lacking an agent at the time, she arranged a meeting with director Mark Robson and producer David Weisbart. They approved of what they saw and asked her to test with eight pages of script the following day.

Murder For Masters Pros

Treacherous 12th Hole Is Favorite Spot For Fans

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — They are golf's vultures.

They plant themselves at the 12th hole at Augusta National, munch sandwiches and chortle with sadistic glee as disaster tumbles on the shoulders of the Masters stars.

It is the shortest hole on the course — 155 yards — and the most dramatic. It's the hole where everything happens — usually bad.

"I wouldn't miss it for the world," said Helen Weeks, a housewife from Sumter, S.C. She lets her husband wander over the course but she stays fixed on the hillside overlooking awesome No. 12.

"I just love to watch them go into the water," she added.

The hole is called the Golden Bell. It is a par three with a tight, hour-glass green. It is covered by water in front. There's a steep bank back of the green. A trap is at the front right and two are carved into the bank at the back.

In a low hollow, the green is whipped by gusty, tricky winds, making accuracy almost impossible.

Instead of apple blossoms and magnolia blooming in the back, it should be shrouded with funeral wreaths.

It is the Hole of Despair.

Former Masters champion Claude Harmon plunked his tee shot into the drink.

"That's No. 4," said George Smith of Cairo, Ga., keeping score on a big tab. There would be a dozen more marks on George's slate before the day was done, and George would be happy.

Try-Outs For Little League Are Listed

The Sedalia Little League Baseball, Inc., Board of Directors met Tuesday night at the Missouri State Bank, to complete a general agenda of business in preparation for the 1967 season.

The spring try-outs have been scheduled in the afternoons of: April 15-16 for league age 10; April 22-23 for league age 11; April 29-30 for league age 12.

The league age of the boy is determined as follows:

Boys born between these dates (both inclusive) — Aug. 1, 1954-July 31, 1955 12; Aug. 1, 1955-July 31, 1956 11; Aug. 1, 1956-July 31, 1957 10; Aug. 1, 1957-July 31, 1958 9; Aug. 1, 1958-July 31, 1959 8.

The League President, Dean Edwards, stated that all boys of league age 10, 11 and 12 must attend the try-outs, so the major league managers will have an opportunity to see the boys work out before selecting boys for their teams. One exception, the boys who were on a major league team last year will not be required to attend the try-outs.

All major league managers are urged to be at the try-outs. Prior to the start of the try-outs each manager will be given a player agent list, listing each boys name who is eligible to participate, for their use in scoring the boys during the work outs.

Registration cards must be turned in as soon as possible. To be eligible to play Little League baseball boys must have their registration cards filled out and signed by both parents and have their family doctor make a note on back that they completed a physical examination. Cards are to be turned in to Player Agent Kenny Schilb.

LODGE NOTICES

Sedalia Lodge No. 236, A. F. & A. M. will meet in regular communication on Friday, April 7, 1967 at 8 p. m. at the Masonic Temple, Broadway and Missouri. The D.D.G.L. will make his official visit on this date and all members are urged to be present. Please note change in time.

"Oh, look," exclaimed Mrs. Sam McFarland of Turbeville, S.C. "Art Wall has lost his ball."

two-under-par, had put his tee shot into the heavy thicket back of the green.

"Shucks," mumbled a neighbor. "They found it."

A rumble of disappointment swept the crowd gathered on the small hill, forming a natural amphitheater.

Gay Brewer, two under through 11 holes, contributed to the day's joy by four-putting from the edge. Tom Bolt hit one into the mud, got on the edge of the green and then putted into a trap. He wound up with a six.

The sadists couldn't hide their delight.

This is the most popular area on the famous course. Two stands are usually almost fully occupied. The hillside is covered with picnic-style spectators.

They don't want to miss a shot. They bring their lunches and stay there from morning until night.

It's the climactic hole of the Masters — which brings either triumph or disaster.

It almost cost Jack Nicklaus the tournament in 1963. But it won for Arnold Palmer in 1960 when a ball embedded in the bank and a favorable ruling gave him a free lift — a three instead of a five.

Harmon asked the hole in 1947 and Bill Hyndman in 1959. Once Sam Snead hit a ball into the water and then chipped into the cup. Dow Finsterwald took 11 strokes there in 1951.

The vultures got one of their biggest charges last year when Doug Sanders, dapperly attired in bright orange, almost fell into the water.

"I never felt more sadistic in my life," said Mrs. Richard Rendleman of Salisbury, N.C. "I wanted him to fall all the way in, orange shoes and all."

Not Sure If Race Track Will Open

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Whether Aqueduct will operate Saturday after being dark three days was thoroughbred racing's big question today.

It transcends such races as Oaklawn's Arkansas Derby and Golden Gate Fields' Gold Rush Stakes in which 3-year-olds will attempt to prove they are worthy of a position in the starting line-up for the May 6 running of the Kentucky Derby.

James Cox Brady, chairman of the New York Racing Association's Board of Trustees, has asked the horsemen to end their boycott of the track.

AUTHOR—Bonnie Brahmmer, Springfield, above, is the author of a book on Custard Glass. Examples of the glass along with copies of the book are on display at the Antique Show in Convention Hall.

UNUSUAL—This one-hand clock is one of the most unusual items on display at the Antique Show at Convention Hall. Small figures between the hour marks tell the time in minutes.

BRASS CLOCK—This is a "Wag On The Wall" handmade clock from France. All of the intricate brass works was pounded out by hand. The clock itself was hand made, in France in 1885. This item is on display at the Antique Show at Convention Hall. Display is by Loren Boles, Broken Arrow, Okla.

OUT OF THE PAST—These items were familiar about a century ago. Upper right is a paddle-type egg beater. Center is a device to remove the pits from cherries. At bottom is a carpet stretcher. Center right is a lemon squeezer. All are on display at the Antique Show at Convention Hall in Liberty Park through Sunday. Thomas Antique Shop, Sweet Springs, has the display. Student Travel Rate Up

NEW YORK, (AP) — Nearly 300,000 college students will pack their phrase books, bikinis and guitars for trips abroad this summer. Even little brothers and sisters will join the exodus. "It's just snowballing," said James E. Glendinning, director of the National Student Association's tour program, Educational Travel, Inc.

He predicted that student travel would be up 15 to 20 percent over last year. The State Department issued passports to 324,180 persons aged 15 to 25 last year, up from 247,140 in 1965, and 48,970 youngsters aged 10 to 14 obtained passports, up from 37,480.

The number of younger travelers has increased so much that Arista, which bills itself as America's largest student travel organization, now splits its group into teen-agers (15-17), collegiates (17-21) and young adults (21-28).

Hundreds of other travel agencies, colleges and airlines are setting up tours and seminars for young people. They may study political science in Czechoslovakia or chamber music in Germany.

Most first trippers still go to Europe, but the number traveling to the Far East, particularly Japan, has been increasing, the council on student travel reports.

The council has chartered a ship to make 10 all-student transatlantic crossings this summer, with open-air language classes, panel discussions on civil rights, jazz sessions and warnings about shipboard romances.

The National Student Association has lined up tours and study programs that cost from $765 for three weeks in Europe to $1,850 for more than seven weeks.

The tours cater to students with fondue parties with Swiss students in Zurich, dances at the Danish students' club in Copenhagen and an evening at a student inn in Heidelberg.

The number of American colleges and institutions sponsoring foreign study programs more than doubled from 103 in 1962 to 208 in 1965, the council reports. In 1950 there were only 6.

Stanford University now reaches out from its California

OLD AND NEW—Modern footgear contrasts sharply with a hand-carved wooden shoe at the Antique Show at Convention Hall.

If you are the average TV owner you probably know but little more about the mechanics of television than you do about the political situation in Upper Tanganyika. The following advice may be old stuff, but it bears repeating:

Now, you would never poke your inquisitive finger into what lies behind the interlock, would you? Some 30,000 volts are hidden away there; a big enough jolt to fell a bull hippopotamus. You are also aware (we hope) that your set is a delicate piece of electronic wizardry which is sensitive to extreme heat, cold or dampness. As a result, place it away from windows and heat outlets.

Also, the antenna plays a big role in the performance of today's powerful sets. For the top performance of which your set is capable, be sure that your antenna is properly erected and above all, that it is a type and design suited to reception problems of your location.

Don't worry about the wizardry of your television set. Leave that all to THE RADIO SHOP, 112 South Ohio, Sedalia, Phone: TA 6-6370, when buying a brand new machine or having the present one put into tip top condition... Sales of new and used sets... Service... Stereo... Quality Service Repair...

Abrams Named To Post Second In Command In Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., who used to lead his tanks into battle with the cry "Attack! Attack! Attack!" is being sent to Vietnam as second in command.

President Johnson announced Abrams' assignment Thursday as deputy to Gen. William C. Westmoreland. Both White House and Pentagon officials said there is no move afoot for Abrams to replace Westmoreland as top commander in Vietnam.

Abrams, who conferred with Johnson at the White House, told reporters he expects to be Westmoreland's helper, carrying out a variety of chores "pretty much across the board."

Now 52, stocky and graying, Abrams is a combat veteran whose aggressiveness in World War II won a rare salute from the legendary Gen. George S. Patton.

"I'm supposed to be the best tank commander in the army," said Patton. "But I have one peer—Abe Abrams."

His face reflects the tough qualities that have carried Abrams from way down in his West Point class—185th to four-star rank in the Army. At West Point he was a classmate of Westmoreland, who is his 4-star senior by about a month.

His looks—together with his toughness, economy of speech, and liking for big long cigars—are reminiscent of the Air Force's retired chief of staff, Gen. Curtis E. Lemay.

For most of the past five years, Abrams has moved through a variety of staff jobs in the Pentagon. He has been Army vice chief of staff since September, 1964.

The White House said Lt. Gen. Ralph E. Haines will succeed Abrams as vice chief of staff. Haines, now commander of the 3rd Corps at Ft. Hood, Tex., will be nominated for promotion to full general.

Abrams returned only Wednesday from his third inspection trip to Vietnam.

"Each time I've come back with a stronger feeling of confidence," he told newsmen. He said he believes the force level in Vietnam "is about right" in the light of the type of operations being conducted there.

Promotions In Civil Air Patrol Made

Lt. Col. Jack G. Kehl, Commander of Group V, Civil Air Patrol, has announced the promotion of Captain Barry L. Thompson, Group V Executive Officer, to Major. The announcement was made at a recent meeting of the Civil Air Patrol. First Lieutenant William R. Miller, chaplain of the Sedalia Civil Air Patrol Squadron, was also promoted by Lt. Col. Kehl to Captain.

Major Thompson joined CAP as a cadet in 1955 in Lexington, Mass. He earned his Certificate of Proficiency within one year of becoming a member, and was appointed Cadet Commander in 1958. He became a permanent Cadet Captain before becoming a senior member, and held the temporary ranks of Cadet Major and Cadet Colonel, the latter during a summer encampment when he was Encampment Cadet Commander.

He became Personnel-Administrative Officer in the Sedalia Squadron, after coming to Whiteman AFB, and in October, 1965 was assigned his present position as Executive Officer of Group V.

In October 1965 Captain Miller joined Civil Air Patrol.

Glider Flights

In 1902, before their first successful power-driven flight, the Wright brothers made nearly 1,000 glider flights, some covering distances of more than 600 feet.

COMING IN—This complete Goss Urbanite press is an example of the new press being installed by the Sedalia Democrat. Part of the 32-page off-set press has already arrived here (photo on Page 3) with the remainder to follow soon. This picture is taken showing the forming and folding portion of the huge machine in the foreground.

Summer Job Appeal To Employers

An appeal for employers of the Sedalia area to provide extra jobs for youth for the summer was made today by Russell Carr, manager of the local Missouri Division of Employment Security office. Carr made the appeal for jobs in support of Governor Warren E. Hearnes, request for jobs for youth earlier this week.

Statistics reported by the governor indicate that at least 20,000 more jobs will be needed this summer in order to take care of the thousands of youth who will hit the labor market at the end of the school term.

Based on records of the Division of Employment Security, more than 30,000 youth are expected to face problems in finding jobs for the summer.

The push to find summer jobs for youth is part of the President's Youth Opportunity Campaign of 1967. The President has requested the nation's business and government agencies to provide at least 2 million jobs for youth this summer.

All businessmen and government officials who may be able to help in summer employment problems are urged to contact the nearest office of the Missouri State Employment Service.

Anti-American Slogans

Flour Is Hurled At HHH In Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Demonstrators hurled bags of flour at Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's car Thursday night and shouted anti-American slogans after a day in which he reaffirmed a U.S. pledge to defend Berlin.

None of the flour struck the vice president, who had been given a heavy security guard after police arrested 10 young leftist extremists and accused them of planning to attack him with explosives.

But the night echoed with whistles, boos and shouts of "Americans out of Vietnam" as Humphrey arrived at Charlottenburg Castle to be the guest of honor at a reception given by Mayor Heinrich Albertz.

On his two-week tour of Western Europe, Humphrey has been dogged by demonstrations mainly aimed at U.S. policy in Vietnam and this was one of the largest.

After Humphrey entered the castle, scuffling broke out between those carrying pro-American signs and those shouting "Murderer, Murderer, Murderer!"

At the opening of a busy day in the old German capital, he predicted that "One day Berlin will once more be the capital, the proud and glorious capital, of a reunited Germany in a safe and peaceful world."

Solemnly, Humphrey told the West Berlin parliament he brought a message from President Johnson renewing the pledge of America's commitment to the city 110 miles behind the iron curtain.

The Vice President leaves Friday morning for Paris, where police have been busy drawing up security plans against an expected wide-scale Communist-led demonstration.

Humphrey turned briefly to Vietnam in his city hall address. He said the people of South Vietnam were struggling to maintain their integrity, and that free people know that the American commitment to freedom in one place "is no less a commitment to freedom in another place."

Referring to the West German goal of making West Berlin a bridge to Eastern Europe, Humphrey declared: "Your Berlin has a chance to play a large role in making the open door to the East a reality."

Police were still probing the alleged conspiracy by young leftists who they said planned attacks with explosives during the Humphrey visit.

Ten persons originally were arrested Wednesday night, but three girls were released when, police said, they could not prove a direct connection between them and a conspiracy by the seven men still held.

Kidnaped Boy Returned After Ransom Is Paid

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., (AP)—A Beverly Hills financier described Thursday how his 11-year-old son was kidnaped without a hitch, then returned unharmed after a large ransom was paid.

Herbert J. Young, 35, president of Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association, said $250,000 ransom was asked for his son Kenneth, but he did not disclose the amount paid.

Kenneth was bound and blindfolded early Thursday in a car parked in an apartment house garage in nearby Santa Monica. After obeying instructions to wait for a half-hour, he worked loose and ran to the nearest apartment to call his parents. He had been missing since early Monday.

The FBI said the kidnappers picked up the ransom Wednesday in Westwood a few miles from Beverly Hills and were at large.

When he was greeted by the FBI and his family at the apartment, "Kenny was very calm, not hysterical or crying," Young said. "He said, 'Hi, dad, I'm awfully sleepy.' He acted

Quang Tri Is Pulled Into War At Border

Over 200 Prisoners Are Freed In Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Communist troops pulled Quang Tri into the northern border war Thursday. They smashed before dawn against U. S. and Vietnamese posts at that provincial capital and freed more than 200 prisoners from the provincial jail.

Sketchy accounts from Quang Tri, 16 miles south of the border, said 10 American soldiers and 47 of the enemy were killed. Thirteen GIs and two U.S. government civilian employees were wounded.

There was no immediate accounting of Vietnamese casualties.

Informed sources said combat troops harried the Communist force in its withdrawal and there were reports of some fighting in the area throughout the day.

The massive raid, which officers believed to have been staged jointly by North Vietnamese regulars and local guerrillas, could be the prelude to another attempt by North Vietnam to mount an invasion in the force.

Though U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops frustrated division-size thrusts of this nature last year, the U.S. Command figures Ho Chi Minh's regime has three divisions totaling 35,000 men in striking distance and may try again. In such a case, Quang Tri would be a primary Red objective.

More than 100 of the prisoners liberated under cover of the attack had been rounded up on suspicion they were guerrilla troops.

Highlighting war developments elsewhere: —Spokesmen announced combat deaths declined on both sides last week from the record figures of March 19-25 with the allies' totaling 423, down 66, and the Communists' 2,377, down 410. Of the U.S. armed forces, 194 men were killed and 1,679 were wounded in action.

—There was a net increase of 10,000 American servicemen in Vietnam to a total of 435,000 as of last Saturday. A U.S. spokesman said the newcomers were members of numerous small outfits, mostly logistic support units.

—Communist bands staged further attacks on South Vietnamese workers in "the other war," the program sponsored jointly by Saigon and American authorities to pacify and develop the countryside. Spokesmen said several village teams were hit. Their casualties, however, were described as light.

—Storm clouds limited U.S. pilots to 67 missions over North Vietnam Wednesday. But all-weather intruder jets from the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise got through for the seventh raid in six weeks on the Communist nation's most modern power station, the Bac Giang plant 20 miles from Hanoi.

Another Fatality For City

Sedalia's fourth traffic fatality for 1967 is Murel W. Andes, 63, driver of a car which was in an accident on U.S. Highway 50 near the west city limits which took the lives of three other persons on Sunday afternoon, March 19. Mr. Andes died at the Independence Sanatorium about 7 a. m. Wednesday, where he had been taken from Bothwell Hospital a few days following the accident.

Also killed in the accident were Stephen W. Hopkins, 16, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Hopkins, 1506 West Broadway, driver of the other vehicle; Mrs. Thelma Andes, 56, wife of Murel W. Andes; and their grandson, Jimmy Stephenson, age 2.

Mrs. Janet Stephenson, 23, mother of Jimmy; and her husband Carl Stephenson, 27, were injured. Mrs. Stephenson suffered only minor injuries, while her husband was seriously injured, receiving a fractured skull and bruises. Stephenson was released from the hospital a few days ago.

Mr. Andes died from injuries suffered in the accident, according to information received in Sedalia.

The body was taken to the Speaks Funeral Chapel, Lexington and Walnut, Independence where funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Burial in the Mound Grove Cemetery, Independence.

Mr. Andes was born at Nevada, but resided in Independence for the past 25 years. He was employed by the Blue Springs Trucking Co., Inc., Blue Springs.

He was a member of the Guggel Park Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Surviving are two sons, seven daughters, three brothers and one sister.

Support For Strike Is Growing

Behind-Scenes Specialists Join Network Boycotts

NEW YORK (AP) —The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists won growing support Thursday for their nine-day strike against the three big networks—from such behind-the-scenes specialists as cameramen, sound engineers and even the motorcycle messengers who rush films between studios.

Management personnel were pushed into many of the vacant posts at NBC, CBS and ABC. But their inexperience was reflected on television screens, where sound wavered, pictures blurred and cameras were misdirected.

No peace talks were in prospect.

At ABC, even press agents walked out briefly. At CBS an official said: "About all we've got left is engineers."

NBC apologized for spotty television transmission, but later reported: "After some initial start-up problems, technical operations have substantially improved and are continuing to run smoothly."

As hundreds of technicians from their unions walked out in sympathy with AFTRA's 18,000 striking performers, network studios from coast to coast faced the prospect of a drying-up of live shows and an increasing dependence on reruns of old programs.

"We'll have them rerunning reruns soon," declared a union leader.

News casts by stand-in network officials continued but live news coverage was being reduced, including network staffing of President Johnson's scheduled visit next week to Uruguay.

AFTRA struck the networks March 29, demanding a $325 a week base salary for slightly more than 100 newscasters, plus an increased share of sponsors' fees for their programs.

The networks claimed, however, that the real issue behind the strike was what they called featherbedding—such as a demand for the assignment of three New York staff announcers to cover an FM radio assignment of only two hours a week.

AFTRA picket lines were augmented in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Washington as hundreds of other industry unionists left their jobs in sympathy with the strikers.

New State Road Maps Available

Missouri's official 1967 state highway road maps will be ready for distribution to highway users Monday, April 10.

The department has again this year made some revisions in the map to make it more usable for the highway user.

The new 1967 map shows all highways in the Missouri State Highway System as of December 31, 1966, as well as some sections of the Interstate highway system which are expected to be completed during the ensuing year.

On the front side of the new map there is a convenient index to many of Missouri's cities and villages for quick location along with their population. The front of the map carries a message to highway users from the Hon. Warren E. Hearnes, governor of the State of Missouri.

As in past years, the reverse side of the map carries a mileage chart showing the travel distance between principal Missouri cities. There are also individual maps depicting the highway routes in and through 47 Missouri cities.

The 1967 map can be obtained "free of charge" at the State Highway Department's Main Office in Jefferson City or at any of the ten district offices throughout the state and from many other sources.

How Not to Elect Republicans

We had in mind to say something in Sunday's editorial about encouraging establishment by the Missouri General Assembly of a Joint Senate-House Interim Committee on Crime and Law Enforcement to probe among other things the entry of gangsters into legal businesses: either write about that or the local Crime Alert program which already is working effectively in Sedalia and the county.

Then we got to reading through that news story the Republican city committee submitted about the meeting in the Fourth Ward Thursday evening. Their copy concerning what spokesmen say at these meetings has been more suppurous than that of the Democrats, hence we have been watching it carefully so that GOP over-enthusiasm will not inject personalities.

But one paragraph in Friday's report of the Fourth Ward meeting slipped by the editorial blue pencil when our attention was distracted from the copy. So we are mad at ourselves and at the GOP writer who also let get by a low blow at our good friend former Mayor Bagby. What in tarnation can be accomplished in Tuesday's election by the Republicans trying to smear this respectable citizen who has served so effectively the Sedalia community in many past years?

Mr. Bagby has always been for Sedalia's progress and we challenge anyone to deny the fact that there is not a single man alive today who has done as much for Sedalia while serving as an elected executive of the people.

So the gambling and prostitution ordinances were repealed by city council back in the 1940's. They were outmoded and never did accomplish as much as what state laws provide in abundant chapters and sections.

We meant to say something about that recently when new city ordinances were adopted against gambling and prostitution. If these restraints are doing any better than the state laws, more power to them—but we haven't seen too much activity in this category to date.

Now let's get this straight. We're not waving a banner today for the maintenance of gambling and prostitution in Sedalia; and neither did Mayor Bagby in 1940 approve such enterprises because they brought a flow of money into the community.

Mr. Bagby's stature as a community leader can't be tarnished by injecting his name into an off-year campaign for election of four councilmen. This is utterly ridiculous! Mud-slinging in his direction can't amount to a tinker's dam as a means to put Republican candidates on the council.

There are enough legitimate issues pertaining to the active candidates themselves to be discussed without resort to slogging through a far out and muddy field for a put out.

As for ourself, we are ashamed we inadvertently let that little dirty paragraph get by. We have always liked Julian Bagby, we have always supported him and will continue to do so in or out of politics because he has demonstrated he has more brains about Sedalia's city affairs than any man since Mayor Judd L. Babcock's time over 50 years ago.

Please, with one more day left before city election let's keep the campaigning clean. We'll help, too, by a little closer editing.

Alabama School Fight Could Backfire

DREW PEARSON

GADSDEN, Ala. — The chief speculation in the deep south is whether ex-Gov. George Wallace can take a big enough bite out of the Democratic vote as an independent candidate to defeat President Lyndon Johnson in 1968 and whether his present move to block Alabama school integration will help him do it.

There is no real doubt in the mind of any political observer but that the Wallace family's move to thwart both the Federal Courts and the Federal Government on integration is intimately tied to George's plans to run for president.

But will it help him? Has not school integration progressed to the point where most southern voters regard battling it as a lost cause? Won't the current furor stirred up by the Wallaces hurt George's presidential ambitions rather than help?

Certainly in Gadsden it will not help. Gadsden is a thriving city proud of Republic Steel's expansion, proud that Good-year makes more tires in its Gadsden plants than in all the rest of the USA, proud that Allis Chalmers, Timex, I.D. Precision and other northern industries have moved here. Gadsden has harmonious race relations and wants to keep them that way. A furor over school integration will not be welcome.

Earlier, when I visited Birmingham, largest Alabama city, and Mobile, the second largest, I found their businessmen had been front-runners in insisting on racial harmony. Birmingham businessmen had helped get rid of the police commissioner and the police dogs which gave the city such unfavorable publicity. If it had not been for edicts from the Wallaces in Montgomery, they said, race relations would have improved much faster. Furthermore, Alabama business does not want to jeopardize the $72,100,512 of Federal funds which flows into Alabama each year to bolster state schools. It would take a healthy tax increase to make up that deficit.

Alabama Lags

Meanwhile Federal figures show that in regard to school integration Alabama is the most backward of all southern states. An over-all average of 12.5 per cent of Negro students are now integrated in the southern states; with Texas, home state of the President, leading. Negro students are 34.6 per cent integrated in Texas; in Virginia, 29 per cent are integrated; in Tennessee, 21.9 per cent; Florida, 14.7 per cent; Arkansas, 14.5 per cent; and North Carolina, 12.8 per cent.

Most backward states are Alabama, with Excoriating Alabama state officials, indirectly Gov. Wallace, the three Alabama Judges ruled that "they have used their authority as a threat and as a means of punishment to prevent local school officials from fulfilling their Constitutional obligations to desegregate schools; and, second, they have performed their functions in such a way as to maintain and preserve the racial characteristics of the system."

In northern Alabama I found that Lurleen is popular, but the power behind the petticoat, her husband, has lost some of his political lustre. It will be interesting to see what his new battle against school desegregation does for him politically in the remainder of the deep south.

Electron Gun Working On Its Schedule

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The electron bullets zip along the two-mile track just a shade off the speed limit of the universe.

At the end, the bullets hurtle into atomic targets, smashing them into myriad fragments, fleeting glimpses of energy and matter torn from the hearts of atoms.

Thus did the biggest linear accelerator in the world — Stanford's $114-million monster — begin to make scientific history well ahead of schedule.

Using high frequency radio waves to prod electrons along, the accelerator boosts them to a speed just one ten-thousandth of a mile per second short of the speed of light, the mathematical barrier beyond which matter may not go, about 186,300 miles per second.

Scientists say that the annual electric bill for this largest scientific instrument ever built will run about $2 million.

So potent is this electron gun that it can produce a beam of electrons with the energy of 20-billion electron volts. They tested it when only one-fiftieth of the gun barrel was in place and produced a beam of 1.3-billion electron volts, the highest ever for a linear accelerator in America.

Congress authorized the project in 1961 to be built and operated by Stanford University under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission. Ground was broken in April 1962 in the gently rolling hills west of the campus proper. It may be the first federal project of comparable size to hold right to its spending budget and time schedule throughout, its builders say.

Tests were completed on schedule. Initial physics research experiments began on schedule. Three have been completed. Two more are in progress. Twelve others are slated within the next 12 months. The dime-size electron beam can be split to service three or more experiments concurrently.

A 10,000-foot steel and concrete tunnel, covered by 25 feet of earth, was built to house the accelerator, a copper pipe about four inches in diameter.

All the smooth successes thus far indicate to Wolfgang K.H. Panofsky, director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Laboratory, that the unique new tool will do its job.

The job is to look deeper and deeper into smaller and smaller things — things a billion times smaller than the best optical microscopes can "see."

Experiments will broaden man's understanding of the ultimate structure of matter and energy, different forms of the same thing, as Einstein stated years ago.

But what will be the practical results from this big atom smasher that will cost $20 million a year to operate with a staff of almost 1,000 persons?

Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, has said such high energy physics experimentation "will probably lead to some of the most important theoretical and perhaps the most practical developments of our age."

The Rule: Don't Aid An Enemy

When you have to lead against a grand slam in no-trump all regular rules go by the board. Obviously, you don't have an ace. In that case you would double and cash it.

Since you don't have an ace our first thought is about the possibility that your partner will hold one. People aren't supposed to bid seven if they are one ace short, but it happens.

Once you decide that your partner doesn't hold one of those pretty cards, the next step in your process of reasoning should be to find a lead least likely to help declarer.

Against most contracts you try to find an attack lead. You also try to lead a card that will give your partner information. Against a grand slam you don't care about helping your partner but you sure don't want to help declarer.

Now take a look at the West hand. It is the sort of hand you usually hold when your opponents get to seven no-trump. You don't have much hope of beating the contract but you do want to make a lead least likely to help declarer.

Therefore you abandon all thought of leading either a heart or a club. You might well be destroying the chance that your jack in either suit will bother declarer.

You are right. A heart or club lead gives declarer his contract. This leaves your choice between a spade and a diamond. It turns out that a lead of any card in one of those suits will be satisfactory, but you should lead a spade on the general theory that there isn't likely to be a long major suit in either the North or South hand and we recommend that you lead the six so that declarer won't be able to get a quick idea as to how many spades you hold.

Beer Guzzling Not Aid to Heart Ailment

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In August, 1965, the first case of a new type of heart ailment was reported in Quebec. Of the 48 victims observed in that city since then, 20 have died. The one thing all of the victims had in common was that they had consumed three to six quarts of beer daily for at least five years.

As mysteriously as it started, the epidemic ended in May of this year. Meanwhile, the same disease has been reported in Omaha and Minneapolis. Doctors in other cities are now on the lookout for evidences of this disease.

The trouble starts with shortness of breath, rapid pulse, waterlogging of the tissues and the bluish cast characteristic of a lack of oxygen in the blood. Within three or four weeks after the onset, the functional impairment of the heart becomes acute. Damage to the heart muscle and to the liver is seen at autopsy.

All of the victims were men, predominantly in their early 40s. None were the skidrow type of alcoholic; they all had steady employment.

Different theories have been put forth to explain this disease. One possibility is a deficiency of some essential dietary element. Another is the use of certain additives in the beer such as cobalt (first permitted by law in 1963) and the enzyme, papain.

Even though no direct connection between the disease and the cobalt has been proved, brewers in Canada and the United States have discontinued the use of these substances just to be on the safe side. It will be interesting to note whether this puts an end to the disease.

Meanwhile other possible causes are being investigated. Anyone who wishes to insure that he does not get this disease need only practice moderation in all things, including his beer drinking.

A — The hereditary determinant for moles is present at birth but the moles themselves do not become apparent until later in life. Some may appear in the teens and others may not appear until you are well past 60. I suspect that the several members of your family are all getting older.

led to Deed the property?

ANSWER: Under these circumstances the answer is "YES". While Jimmy indicated that he would accept $16,000.00 for the property and authorized the agent to change the amount, the real estate dealer was in fact Jimmy's agent and Jimmy became responsible for his actions. Further than that Jimmy made a serious mistake in signing a contract with provisions he did not like, relying on someone else to change it. There is a rule of law that, in general, a person cannot sign a paper and then later claim that what he signed was not the agreement between him and the other party.

An equally important warning is: Don't sign a contract or document in reliance on someone's assurance that you will not be bound by what you have signed.

'Fair and Equal' Is Illusive

There is no way, short of conscripting every able-bodied man in the country, of making the draft absolutely fair and equal. Even if this were attempted, inequalities would remain in military services itself.

In the Army today, as in the past, one man is handed a rifle and placed in daily jeopardy of life and limb on the firing line. Another is assigned to a desk and never faces a hazard greater than catching a finger in the pencil sharpener.

But while there is plenty of argument over the current law, which expires July 1, and over suggestions for improving it, there is general agreement that a better one can and must be written.

That there will be a new law is as certain as that the war in Vietnam will not be over on June 30. It is just as certain that the new law will satisfy neither those who urge that the draft be abolished entirely nor those who advocate true Universal Military Training. It is to be hoped, however, that it will eliminate the more blatant inequities that characterize the present method of deciding who will serve and who will be deferred.

President Johnson has recommended a number of changes to Congress, based on a report of a 20-member National Advisory Commission on Selective Service. They include inducting 19-year-olds first, tightening college deferments, reducing the number of draft boards and making their standards of selection more uniform and a lottery.

There is debate on the details, but the provision regarding men of age 19 seems eminently sound. It is, for one thing, the age when being required to put in two years in the service is least likely to disrupt a young man's plans for schooling or work or marriage.

For another, it will replace the "iffiness" of the present situation with an element of inevitability. Faced with the almost-sure prospect of being drafted at 19, more men will be encouraged to enlist at 18 to get their obligation over with. Others will be discouraged from embarking on the game of academic roulette with their draft boards and turning into professional students who stay in school long after they would otherwise have completed their studies.

Most important, since more men are likely to start a similar marital, scholastic or career status at this age than any other, it would seem the best way to implement the ideal the President had in mind when he said, "The nation's requirement that men must serve . . . imposes this obligation: That in this land of equals, men are selected as equals to service."

Sunny Bimini Charms Pall On Powell

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Things have not been going well for Adam Clayton Powell on the sun-kissed island of Bimini. His self-imposed exile in the paradise has begun to pall, and his words to newsmen, "Why go back to Washington when you can enjoy a place like this?" have developed a very hollow ring.

Things have become so difficult that Adam's closest advisers are working feverishly to get him back to New York before he displays in public what they have already seen in private — the signs of illness. For a man who once flew all the way to the Bandung conference in Indonesia to defend the United States against the Chinese communists and who as chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee passed some of the most important education and labor laws in history, it's a pathetic picture.

"One minute he's pleasant and charming and the next minute he's cutting your guts out," confessed one supporter who had flown down to Bimini to help. "That's why they can't get anyone to go down there except the dissidents and the third-parties. Adam thinks everyone down there is spying on him."

The End of the World Bar has also lost its appeal; and even Corinne Huff, first Negro girl to win the Miss Ohio beauty contest, who has been living with Adam in South Bimini, appears unhappy.

Adam's Isolation
Part of the trouble is the New York courts. Until it's certain that Adam won't be arrested when he returns, his supporters are trying to keep someone on the island to dispel his sense of isolation and abandonment.

To this end they are sending out calls—some almost threats of political retaliation—to prominent Negroes around the country to come to Bimini to stand up and be counted as friends of Adam. This, however, has not been easy. Powell has insulted too many of his friends. Even when Chuck Stone, former editor of the Afro-American and Adam's most faithful staff member, came to Bimini, he was kept waiting 24 hours before Powell would give him a private audience.

To bolster both Adam's public image and his self-reliance, negotiations are under way to get widely respected civil rights leaders, ranging from Philip Randolph of the Sleeping Car Porters' Union to Martin Luther King and Whitney Young of the Urban League, to come to the island. In return Powell would keep his mouth shut — no more TV press conferences showing Adam apparently under the influence of too many scotches.

Some newspapers have reported that Adam is not concerned about the prospects of being arrested if he returns to New York. In Miami, however, when he flew there to have an election paper notarized, he appeared to be very much concerned. He remained at the airport only 20 minutes. If he is arrested, he wants to be tapped in Harlem amid his constituents.

There was a time when Adam didn't give a hoot about his public image. Thumbing his nose at white men made him a hero back in Harlem. But those days have changed.

After front-page newspaper stories featured him with a bosomy fire dancer in the End of the World Bar — pictures which also inspired the wrath of Corinne Huff — Adam was persuaded that he must improve his image.

This was what started his series of week-end outdoor sermons on the island. They were attended chiefly by curious American

V-P Trip To Check Wind Direction

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like holding a wet finger up in the air to see which way the wind was blowing when President Johnson sent Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on a good-will mission to Europe.

He found that some of the wind could have been catastrophic. For what almost happened to Humphrey might have turned out far worse than the roughing up Vice President Richard M. Nixon got on his Latin-American tour in 1958.

Johnson himself has not visited Europe as President. This caused some wondering about his concern for relations with the Allies, a relationship which has deteriorated a bit.

Since President John F. Kennedy, with even less time in the White House than Johnson, made two European trips, Johnson's staying at home was even more noticeable.

But Johnson has had the Vietnam war to handle, to worry about and keep him busy. No doubt his official receptions would have been cordial — but perhaps not hearty, because of some dissatisfaction in Europe over the U. S. role in Vietnam.

Just because there is dissatisfaction there was no assurance that any Johnson trip through the streets of Europe would not be hectic, molested, or even violent.

And if Johnson were mistreated, or worse, this country's European relationship might be wrecked. So, as time passed, Johnson had a lot to think about before going abroad. Humphrey went.

He left March 26, visited one capital after another, had a more or less pleasant journey, argued with the British Parliament in private about Vietnam, handled himself well and got a few jeers.

He ran into some long-haired demonstrators in Holland, had his car pelted with eggs in Florence, but otherwise seemed to be coming through all right until Wednesday in West Berlin.

There the police announced they had seized 11 extremists involved in a bomb plot against "the life or health" of Humphrey on his scheduled visit to the city today.

The extremists didn't represent the German people, but they were a menace and there are probably bands of them in every city in Europe where Johnson might have gone if he, instead of Humphrey, had made this trip.

At this writing it isn't clear whether the group arrested in Berlin was anti-American because of Vietnam or anti-American because of some ideology or whether they were agents of some government set loose to cause chaos.

But there are so many nuts loose in the world the same thing might have happened here if the queen of England visited the United States or French President Charles de Gaulle came over.

Yet, this grisly possibility or the more nearly actual scheme against Humphrey will probably not deter heads of state from traveling abroad.

That there will be a disaster from one of these visits eventually seems inevitable since, violence and irresponsibility have become two chauffeurs of civilization.

When Nixon went to Latin America in 1958 he was the target of violent, allegedly Communist-inspired, anti-American demonstrations in Peru and Venezuela, and lesser outbursts by university students in Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, and Colombia.

At Caracas, Venezuela, mobs with rocks and sticks attacked Nixon's automobile, smashed its windows and tried to drag the vice president and his wife out of the car.

In 1960 President Dwight D. Eisenhower had to cancel a trip to Japan because of the anti-American riots there and threats of worse ones if he went.

Everyone bid his head off except West who did not come close to doing justice to his cards. Thus, East and West found themselves defending against three hearts when they could have made game in spades had they bid it. Of course, it would have been a mighty lucky game but three spades would have been a fine contract.

To add real injury to insult, South managed to bring his three-heart contract home. It wasn't too difficult. All South had to do was to remember the bidding.

West opened the ace of spades and continued. East took the second spade and led the four of diamonds. South's king lost to West's ace, whereupon West played his queen of diamonds, which South ruffed.

South drew trumps and paused to reconstruct his opponents' hands. East had overcalled on a suit headed by the king-jack-ten and very little else. West had given his partner one raise and had shown up with the ace of spades and ace-queen of diamonds.

It appeared that East needed the king of clubs to justify his overcall and it also looked as if West would have been able to take a little stronger action if he held that club king in addition to what he had already shown. Therefore it seemed certain that East held the king of clubs and that the club finesse was certain to be a loser.

South could afford to lose one club trick — not two. East held the king of clubs, but he did not have to hold three of them. South led a club to dummy's ace, ruffed a spade back to his hand, led a second club and played low from dummy. East had to play his king and South was home with the bacon.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG Angina Victim Should Shun Smoking, Exertion

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — Can a person with angina pectoris be cured? How does it affect the heart?

A — Angina is usually a chronic disease caused by spasm or narrowing of one of the coronary arteries. The victim should avoid smoking, sudden exposure to cold and severe exertion. Several drugs are used to relieve the attacks but for more lasting relief either a program of gradually increasing exercise under strict medical supervision or an operation is required.

Excellent results have been reported in selected patients who have had the sympathetic nerve supplying the heart cut or have had a healthy blood vessel near the heart implanted in the heart muscle.

Q — I have angina pectoris. My doctor has recommended that I take nitroglycerine to relieve the pains but I am reluctant to take this drug. Does it act only as a painkiller or has it some other action?

A — Nitroglycerine is not a painkiller. It stops the pain of angina by relieving the spasm and dilating the coronary blood vessels. By all means, take it as often as you need to. Some victims take as many as 25 of these tablets a day.

Q — What are Orbachin tablets used for? Why are they so salty?

A — This over-the-counter drug is a triple bromide and is used as a nerve sedative. Since bromides are closely related to table salt they have a salty taste.

Q — Is cigarette smoking especially harmful to persons with bronchial or sinus trouble?

A — According to the report of the U.S. Public Health Service cigarette smoking is the chief cause of chronic bronchitis. No evidence of its effect on the nasal sinuses has been presented.

Non-Profit Business Is Increasing In The U.S.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans like to think of their industry as primarily private and profit-seeking, but each year a growing share of our output, employment and innovation is in the not-for-profit sector.

Aside from government itself, chief of these profitless enterprises are foundations, as most people now are aware following an uproar over the flow of secret CIA funds into the coffers of some of them.

But this emergence into the news is only the beginning, for foundations are growing swiftly in number and size. One estimate places the number at more than 45,000 and growing at the rate of more than 1,000 a year.

The Foundation Library Center reports that assets of philanthropic foundations have now reached a record high of $20.3 billion, an increase of nearly $6 billion in three years. They now distribute $1.2 billion a year. Numbers, however, do not tell the full story. Feeling their strength, foundations now are asserting their views with more vigor. The Ford Foundation, largest of them all, spotlighted the trend this week.

This foundation, whose president is former presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy, challenged the very structure of the Communications Satellite Corp. imaginative, and suggested its domestic expansion be limited.

In doing so, Bundy's organization showed an aggressiveness and a determination that one is accustomed to associating with companies whose dollars are at stake. But Ford Foundation's interest was not financial. It wished, it said, merely to prevent a COMSAT monopoly of communications satellites.

The COMSAT argument produces a curiosity: seldom before have so many different forms of free institutions been involved in one matter. They run the gamut from private and profit seeking to nonprofit and public.

Among those whose interests are involved in the dispute are several profit-seeking private companies and a profit-seeking semi-utility, American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Chief object of Ford Foundation's criticism is COMSAT, a unique combination, a hybrid of public and private interests united in a profit-seeking enterprise.

And sitting as judge of this controversy — which involves a determination of how and who should operate a domestic satellite—is the biggest nonprofit institution in the world, the U.S. government.

These examples point up the fact that the variations within our system, which we call free enterprise, are becoming very

WASHINGTON (AP) — No other major nation in the world has a per capita death rate from fires as high as the United States.

This was reported to a Senate subcommittee Tuesday by J. Herbert Holloman, acting undersecretary of commerce.

The U.S. rate, Holloman said, is six and a half times that of Japan, for instance. It is twice that of Canada and four times that of the United Kingdom, he said.

Holloman testified in favor of the fire research and safety act proposed by President Johnson. Ten million dollars is envisioned as the first-year cost of a proposed five-year program.

Research into causes of fires and techniques to prevent and fight them would be provided for by the legislation. It also deals with training of firefighting personnel, fire prevention demonstration projects and public education on fire hazards.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of architects who prowled the U.S. Capitol building from top to bottom say it needs plenty of repairs but isn't at the falling-down stage yet.

The inspection team urged a restoration job, noting that none of the defects in the 168-year-old sandstone walls "appear to indicate that danger of collapse is imminent or that correction is impracticable."

Some settling is going on but the Capitol "is not slipping down the hill," they said.

The inspection team was given its assignment by the American Institute of Architects, which is fighting proposals to extend the west front of the building to create more office space.
